A WORD FROM FATHER KEVIN

The Church authority often speaks not only to us Catholics but to people of good will. The Second Vatican Council was a good example, and its various documents are invariably addressed that way. We can see a distant echo of that in the first reading this weekend, from the depths of history. Rejoice, declares the prophet Isaiah, o Jerusalem and all you who love her. That means both Jews and non-Jews of good will. In our time, that could read Christians and non-Christians of good will. This last chapter of the prophecy of Isaiah (chapter 66) speaks of the Church in prophecy, and how the promise made to the Jewish nation finds a happy conclusion. Let us raise the Cross once more, so that all the tribes and nations of the world will be drawn to Christ and be saved. The gospel message this weekend is a blueprint for evangelisation, and we all know how the Bishop has been encouraging us for years to be missionary disciples. When it comes to issues of human dignity and morals, we may face difficulties in speaking well, even to family members, but like the seventy-two in the gospel reading we shall return rejoicing, for even the devils submit to Christ.

Holy Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle; be our defense against the wickedness and snares of the devil.
May God rebuke him, we humbly pray.
And do thou, O prince of the heavenly host, by the power of God thrust into hell Satan and all the evil spirits who prowl about the world for the ruin of souls.
Amen.
